

Funding when you need it most.

Payroll Funding Company has partnered with your PEO to provide short-term funding when you need quick access to cash for payroll emergencies.

Your partner, not just a lender

As a partner, we are deeply interested in your business succeeding and will work closely with you to support you through your cash flow and payroll challenges. Additionally, we do not take any equity in exchange for our cash infusion. Our success depends on your success.

Looking beyond the financials

Although we review your financials, we also know there's more to your story. We specialize in funding companies that may not look good on paper. We have developed an expertise in looking beyond the financial reports and truly understanding the potential of your business. Unlike traditional lenders, and because you're with your PEO, we require zero security.

No security required

Short-term capital for payroll emergencies

Payroll is due in a few days and you're still waiting for invoices to be paid - this can happen fast and unexpectedly. You're not alone. In fact, this happens often enough that it's at the core of why we started Payroll Funding Company. We are the investment arm of a family trust and want to put our money to good use. Our unique approach is to partner with businesses that find themselves in a "payroll pickle". We provide fast, short-term capital to help you get through the urgent financial hurdle and focus on your business.

"We have had the opportunity to take on new contracts and grow our company with the help of Payroll Funding Company. They have always been there when we needed them, with a quick payroll solution. They are great!"

Other uses for Payroll Funding

Other urgent needs for capital can arise - we're here for you! Below are a few real scenarios that demonstrate how clients have used our short-term capital.

Supplier Discounts

A roofing company in California borrowed initially to pay an aging payable, then came back for another funding to pay cash up front to negotiate a critical discount.

Marketing

A weight loss clinic business in Denver invested in their online presence, and saw returns in a broader suburban client base.

Expansion

A big rig truck repair company in Tennessee borrowed funds to expand their parking lot so their growing fleet could create another revenue stream.
